Site selected for new main Bay Post Office

The U.S. Postal Service has selected a site for the new main post office building in Bay St. Louis, Postmaster Tom Hill said.

The Postal Service has accepted an offer from Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Moore, 1200 US-90 West, Bay St. Louis, to sell a 4.6-acre tract (199,060 sq. ft.) of land on the southwest corner of the intersection of US-90 and Bouslog Street. The price of the land is $292,750.

Attorneys for the Southern Region of the Postal Service are expected to close on the land purchase soon.

An architect will now be hired to design the building. The proposed new postal-owned building will have approximately 18,718 sq. ft. of interior floor space.

Immunity statute covers Ulman Pier

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Ulman Avenue Pier has been reopened without insurance.

Hancock County Beat Five Supervisor James Travirca said the board has discovered that state sovereign immunity statutes still protect the county from liability in cases of injury to users of the pier.

The pier is classified as a public facility because it is maintained with county funds.

Board Attorney Joseph Gex said sovereign immunity was extended for one year by the legislature, which had threatened to cancel the old statute.

Sovereign immunity protects municipalities from being sued for damages by individuals injured at public facilities so long as the injuries are not found to result from negligence, Gex explained.

Travirca said his crew removed barricades from the pier on Monday morning and have been instructed to place additional warning signs on the structure.

The warning signs state that swimming and diving are prohibited and that users of the pier are entering the facility at their own risk.

The pier has been closed for several weeks because the firm providing the county with municipal liability insurance for the facility cancelled the policy.

Chancery Clerk Michael Necaie said the policy was cancelled because the firm stopped offering liability insurance for municipalities and the only other insurance coverage that could be found would have cost the county three times the amount being paid for the old policy.

The coverage would have been for $300,000 rather than the $500,000 provided by the old policy, and would have excluded swimming and diving.

The board voted last week to reject the offered policy and to reopen the pier, but Travirca argued that the county should have some kind of protection against lawsuits before doing so.

Board refuses to commercialize 16th Section land to generate extra funds

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Falling to second a motion by Lynette Necaie, the Hancock School Board Monday refused to reclassify a section of land from residential to commercial.

The motion which would have allowed a parcel of land north of Kiln on Highway 603 which is currently unoccupied to be leased as commercial property would have generated "nearly twice" as much revenue, according to Superintendent Terrell Randolph.

He said an appraisal of the land would be necessary to give the exact figures, however, if the land were appraised at $5,000, a commercial lease would generate $500 a year compared to a residential lease that would generate only $300 a year.

Durwin Spence of Picayune made his second appearance Monday before the board to question the holdup on leasing the land.

Spence who currently operates a general store has requested a commercial lease on the land to build a convenience store.

An area resident whose property is adjacent to the parcel in question has applied for a residential lease on the land.

Board Member Monvel Cuevas told the board he would not agree to a commercial lease on land in a residential area.

Spence said he did not believe the area was residential because another store, a nursery, a voting precinct and a rental house are all located around the property.

Following the meeting Spence said he intended to seek a legal opinion if the board was putting the land to the "highest and best use" as required by statute.

Board President Billie Lyons said she intends to view the land this week to see if the land is surrounded by commercial property and if it is the question of reclassification could come up again.

Interfund loans remain on books

County gets favorable report on 1984 compliance audit

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has received a favorable report from the State Audit Department on its 1984 records with one exception more than a decade old.

The exception consists of interfund loans that have remained on the county's books since before the state changed procedures for repayment of transfers from one county account to another.

The board has learned that about $100,000 in county interfund loans, some dating back more than 20 years, were never repaid.

Rodney D. Zeagler, an audit department supervisor, told board members Monday that the unpaid loans had been discovered during a compliance audit.

According to Chancery Clerk Michael Necaie, a compliance audit is more thorough than a regular audit, which is probably why the unpaid loans had been previously undiscovered.

A regular audit checks the records of county accounts to make sure they match correctly with the amount of money in each account.

A compliance audit not only checks records but checks the record-keeping processes themselves to make certain they comply with current laws.

Necaie, who was authorized by the board to work with the State Audit Department's technical division on the problem, called the unpaid interfund loans "the only surprise in the report."

"I was pleased with the audit. Since it was a compliance audit, it was probably the most thorough the county has ever had," he added.

"The only problems they found were five minor infractions and most of them have been corrected since 1984."

"The report was not an A-plus but it was a high A," Necaie said. "I would not mind having an audit report like that any time."

The five infractions found included three that have already been corrected.

These include two cases of funds not initially placed in proper accounts and an initial failure to channel a small account in the Hancock County Sheriff's Office through the general fund.

A fourth item, which concerns records for a payroll clearing account, is presently being corrected through his office, Necaie said.

"Basically the auditors were pleased with the accounting in this county and found the records in excellent condition, but that's because we have an excellent staff," the chancery clerk said.

He said he plans to try to straighten out the problem with the interfund loan records as soon as he receives instructions on procedure from the department's technical division.

"I think the audit department is doing a great job and it is my contention that even though we got a good audit report, there is always room for improvement, and I will always be searching to do the best job possible to cooperate with the auditors to the fullest extent," Necaie said.

Zeagler discussed the problems with the interfund loan records with the board during the presentation of his report Monday.

He said most of the loans had been made through transfers of funds dating from 1962 to 1975.

"I think all of them that are still outstanding were made from 1975 backwards," Zeagler said.

Changes made in the statutes governing interfund loans, which are actually transfers from one county account to another, require that they now be repaid by the end of the same fiscal year in which they occur.

Some of the loans can be written off because the funds involved in the transfers have since been consolidated, according to Zeagler.

In other business Monday, the board:

County school board awards contract for new classrooms

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Construction should begin any day on six new classrooms at Gulfview Elementary School.

Acting on the architect's recommendation the Hancock School Board awarded the contract Monday to Tilley Constructors and Engineers, Inc. of Gulfport, the low bidder for the project.

Architect Fred Wagner told the board that in any combination of bid alternates, Tilley was the lowest and best bidder but recommended that only alternate three be accepted.

With this alternate bid selection, the price for the classrooms will be $261,200.

This alternate calls for the prefabricated building exterior walls will be covered with brick veneer, the interior walls will be concrete block and all classrooms and halls will be carpeted.

Wagner added that with this alternate

J. L. KILLEEN

Joseph L. "Buzzy" Killeen of New Orleans, La., president of Fitzgerald Advertising Inc. and a leading advertising executive in the South, died Friday, April 4, 1985, at Tulane University Hospital after a long illness.

He was 59.

Under his direction, Fitzgerald won a number of local and regional awards, especially for the McIlhenny Co.'s Tabasco pepper sauce account, which he handled personally. Mr. Killeen created the worldwide marketing strategy for the Tabasco product.

In the early 1950s, Mr. Killeen persuaded McCall's magazine to use a new full-color advertising printing technique that he helped to develop and that most magazines use today, a spokesman for Fitzgerald said.

Mr. Killeen was a member of the board of directors of the American Association of Advertising Agencies and governor of its Southwest Council. He lectured on advertising and marketing at universities and colleges throughout the south.

In 1983, the Advertising Club of New Orleans named him "Advertising Man of the Year."

A native of New Orleans, Mr. Killeen graduated from St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis, where, on the football team, he was blocking back for Felix "Doc" Blanchard, later a famous Army fullback.

He also played football for Tulane University. During World War II, he served in the merchant marines.

After the war, Mr. Killeen joined the Fitzgerald agency of which his father, Joseph L. Killeen Sr., was a co-founder. He was named president in 1968.

A noted sportsman and sailor, Mr. Killeen raced his sloop, "Urchin," in national and international events and supervised a number of Star regattas.

Mr. Killeen compiled the stories in a book, "Cajuns of Louisiana Bayous... the People and the Legends," completed last year.

Mr. Killeen was a member of the President's Council of Loyola University, the Louisiana State University Journalism and Advisory Council, the Olympic Sailing Association and the Southern Yacht Club.

He is survived by his wife, Connie Jones Killeen; three daughters, Mrs. Shannon Barton of Nashville, Tenn., Laura Lee Killeen and Mrs. Nina Whittaker, both of New Orleans; two sons, Joseph L. III and Shawn Killeen of New Orleans; a brother, Walter Harvey Killeen; a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Willumitis; and four grandchildren.

A Mass was celebrated at 9:30 a.m. Monday at Most Holy Name of Jesus Church.

Interment was private.

The family requests donations in memoriam be made to St. Stanislaus Scholarship Fund, P. O. Box 351, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520 or Gulf Coast Conservation Assn., 830 Union St., N.O., LA 70112.

Police search for relatives of man found dead

Hancock County law enforcement officers continue to withhold the identity of the man whose body was found floating in the Mississippi Sound Monday.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Ray Murphy said Wednesday morning officials are still trying to locate relatives of the dead man.

According to papers found on the body, the man was from New Orleans, he said.

The white male is believed to have been in his 30s, about six feet tall, 180-190 pounds, with brown hair.

Fishermen discovered the body early Monday morning approximately one mile from the American Legion Pier in Bay St. Louis.

There are no visible signs of foul play, according to Hancock County Coroner Harold Sitglet.

Students get okay for walking shorts

County rehires all teachers

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Although many school districts on Gulf Coast have had to cut back on the number of teachers for next year, the Hancock County School board approved the rehiring of all teachers.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph told the board Monday that the district was in good shape.

Even with proposed cuts in state funding the district will be able to afford all its teachers, he said.

"This is due to good management and a prudent board," Randolph said.

Also at the meeting the board agreed to allow a two-week trial period for students in the district to wear "walking shorts."

Student body President Jacob Dupree requested the trial period, telling the board that of parents polled 98 percent had voted in favor of allowing the shorts.

Dupree said that not only were the shorts more comfortable but that the usual high absenteeism during the warmer months may be reduced if the shorts were allowed.

Students showed current styles of walking shorts that were actually longer than skirts that were previously allowed.

Randolph said he had talked with officials at Long Beach and Ocean Springs where shorts had been allowed. He said at Ocean Springs there had been very few problems with allowing the shorts.

"From an administrative viewpoint, we have no particular objection to the walking shorts but a general objection to anything that would distract from the educational climate," said Don Hillman, Hancock North Central High School principal.

Dupree told the board he would talk to the student body and request them to discipline themselves and wear only shorts of an appropriate length.

The board passed a motion to allow the use of the walking shorts until such a time when abuse of the policy would require another action.

In other business, the board approved a recommendation from Hillman for coaching positions for spring sports including Charles Duffie, varsity tennis; Larry Johnson, junior high girls track; Robert Ramero, junior high boys track; Dennis Peterson, varsity boys track; and Debbie Triplet, varsity girls track.

Ever since the days of the Garden of Eden, the apple has been prominent in our legends, our history, our lives. The early settlers of our country made sure that apple seeds were part of their precious hoards when they set out for the New World, so that they could grow and enjoy the apple trees.

And, let's not forget Johnny Appleseed (whose real name was John Chapman.) He wandered through the Midwestern wilderness, planting apple seeds in between preaching to his countrymen!

There are so many varieties of apples these days that it's difficult to decide one's favorite—I like just about all of them, except the mealy ones—in just about all ways.

Of course, apple pie is a cornerstone of American cookery, along with apple dumplings and such. And what is tastier for a quick snack than a crisp, tart apple eaten along with generous wedges of sharp cheddar cheese? Or sauteed apple slices surrounding a crisp-crusted loin of pork or platter of pork sausages? Or - we can all think of our special favorites, can't we?

Apple desserts are favorites around the world. For an easy, but delicious dessert, try:

APPLE CRUMB CAKE
1 cup sugar
1 cup flour
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
6 large apples, cored and sliced
1 egg
1/3 cup melted margarine
Cinnamon sugar

Sift together the sugar, flour, salt and baking powder. Add the unbeaten egg, and mix until it resembles coarse meal - it's easiest to mix with your hands, but, if you're finicky, try using a fork.

Line the bottom of a 9 x 13 baking dish with the sliced apples, and sprinkle with the flour mixture. Drizzle the melted margarine over, then sprinkle with cinnamon sugar (cinnamon and sugar mixed together) to your taste. Bake for approximately an hour in a 350 degree oven. Delicious!

Quotables by CUEVAS

I received a big surprise last week when Les Pepperdene visited our office.

Pepperdene was going through a box of belongings of his late parents, Kenneth and Ester Pepperdene, when he found a 50th Anniversary Edition of The Sea Coast Echo.

We have been seeking such an edition for many years, as publisher G. B. Moreau died in 1942 while the edition was being published. Our files go back to Mr. Moreau's first edition in 1892, but the 50th Anniversary Edition was missing from our morgue.

As many of you remember, the late Kenneth Pepperdene was very instrumental in the construction of Hancock General Hospital, as he was a trustee on the hospital's first board.

He was a trustee at the time of his death, and a wing later added to HGH is named in his honor.

His late wife Ester, became a registered nurse after his death and worked for many years at HGH.

Les Pepperdene also found three editions of The Sea Coast Echo following the 1947 Hurricane along with the anniversary special.

We are very grateful to Les Pepperdene for making the presentation of those editions to The Sea Coast Echo in memory of his parents.

In only a few years, The Sea Coast Echo will be celebrating its 100th Anniversary and they will come in very handy.

I knew both your mother and father Les, and I know what Hancock General Hospital meant to them, and the many benefits our community received from their years of dedication.

Thanks again, Les.

A problem not new to Bay St. Louis is once again happening to two of our community agencies.

This is something we have mentioned in this column before, and we will try again to get the problem across to everyone.

The Salvation Army and Goodwill Industries both have boxes placed in Bay St. Louis to collect clothing and small items.

Both of the community organizations have boxes in the parking lot on North Second and State streets, and this past weekend large piles of furniture and debris appeared next to them.

The Salvation Army collects large items and has a telephone number placed on the box in large letters for persons wanting to give them away.

For one thing, furniture is damaged by the elements, not to mention the fact that the area looks like a city dump.

Many good services are offered to citizens in need, by both The Salvation Army and Goodwill Industries.

We received a telephone call on Monday from Bay Mayor Victor Franckiewicz about the problems being caused by the dumping of furniture and debris by the boxes.

Mayor Franckiewicz said he would like for any citizens seeing someone placing materials on the ground outside of the boxes to please notify the police department at 467-9221.

Saturday is going to be rather a busy day in Hancock County with two big events scheduled.

The 3rd Annual Navy-NSTL Special Olympics Field Day is set with opening ceremonies at 9:30 a.m.

Also at 9 a.m., registration will begin for boys and girls grades three through six of Christ Episcopal Day and North Bay Elementary schools for a Mississippi Lung Association-sponsored 'Superkids' field day.

The Bay St. Louis Rotary Club is co-sponsor for the 'Superkids' event to be held at Bay High Tiger Stadium.

The Special Olympics Field Day at NSTL will include athletes from Hancock, Harrison, Stone and Pearl River counties.

We hope there will be a lot of support for both events.

The Bay St. Louis Neighborhood Watch Program is really spreading throughout the city.

Bay Police Captain Jim Clark, coordinator for the program says his department is now ready to help other neighborhoods to organize.

Persons interested may call Captain Clark at 467-9221 and if he is not on duty he will return your call.

HOUSEKEEPING

A Weekly Summary Of Mississippi House Of Representatives

By Andrew Reese
House Information Officer

JACKSON— The Mississippi legislature, moving toward final adjournment, has completed work on proposals to establish more uniform school laws, allow statewide banking and reduce assessment ratios for residential property if approved by the people in a statewide referendum.

These were among numerous bills and resolutions clearing the House of Representatives and Senate last week in a drive to wind up the 1986 session. Originally, the session was to have ended Sunday, April 6, but an extension was approved to allow work to continue on several major appropriation bills and a package of optional proposals to help ease the state's budget headaches.

While the extension resolution set April 15 as the new adjournment date, lawmakers hoped to conclude their remaining chores this week.

Most bills approved last week involved measures passed earlier in the session than sent to conference committees to resolve House-Senate differences.

The banking bill would do away with a controversial 100-mile limit and allow existing banks to buy or merge with other banks statewide as of July 1, 1986. In addition, it prescribes a three-step process for banks to open branches beyond the 100-mile limit starting in mid-1987, includes restrictions on opening branches to protect small town banks, and permits regional interstate banking beginning in 1988.

Supporters contend statewide banking will mean more competition for customer service and benefit both borrowers and consumers. The bill would allow a bank to open branches within a 150-mile limit in July 1987, within 200 miles in July 1988, and statewide in July 1989.

Among the key provisions in the 191-page bill on public school laws is a requirement that county supervisors levy taxes necessary to fund school board requests. Municipal officials already are mandated to fund budgets submitted by city school boards. Under the bill, residents of a school district could petition for an election on the increase if the school budget is more than 7 percent above the previous year's budget. An election would be mandatory if the increase exceeds 10 percent.

The bill makes no changes in the method of selecting school board members or superintendents. However, it calls for a local referendum in 1988 on whether superintendents should be appointed in districts where the superintendents are elected.

The legislation also would allow issuance of school bonds with no election, unless requested by voters, for a 14-month period ending June 30, 1987. Thereafter, an election on school bond issues would again be required. The measure does not change the existing 60 percent requirement for approval in school bond elections.

Other provisions deal with such areas as leasing of school facilities, school audits, school bus purchases, and qualifications of superintendents.

Mississippi voters will have a chance to decide in June on a constitutional amendment aimed at easing the tax load on homeowners. The proposal would revise the constitutional provision on classification of property for tax purposes and reduce the assessment ratio from 15 to 10 percent on single-family, owner-occupied residences. No changes would be made in other assessment ratios with agricultural, commercial and forestry property at 15 percent while motor vehicles and public utilities would stay at 30 percent. The amendment says the assessment ratio on one class of property shall not be more than three times the ratio on other classes. At present, the ratio on one class of property can not be more than double the ratio on other classes.

The proposal was a revised version of the constitutional amendment that narrowly failed to win legislative approval in 1985. An interim study committee was appointed in the House last year to study the entire complex issue.

Other major legislation that cleared the House in the past week included a sweeping overhaul of state election laws in line with an interim study committee's recommendations; a reorganization of state health care programs, including repeal of the Health Care Commission and transfer of its duties to the State Health Department; and a bill providing that certain funds of the Highway Department and other special-fund agencies will be subject to budget cuts in case of a financial emergency in state government.

The House voted to authorize a new Vulnerable Adults program to help protect adult citizens not able to care for themselves; require county constables to wear uniforms on duty and complete a course in law enforcement; permit Mississippi to participate in a proposed Southern regional presidential primary in 1988; re-enact the state's anti-racketeering law; provide for licensing of dietitians; require parental consent in abortion cases involving minors; and revise state purchase laws.

A very special guest made a visit to the House last week—little Candace Michelle Stephenson of Ackerman, the state's Easter Seals Poster Child.

JACKSON — The Legislature is walking away from the Capitol this week, leaving state services and institutions turning slowly in the wind because the lawmakers and the Allain administration could not cope with the biggest state budget crisis in 54 years.

Some lawmakers felt it necessary to let state agencies "bleed" for awhile in order to create a public demand that something be done to stop the bleeding, and then the Legislature will be called back, taxes will finally be raised, and the bleeding stopped.

This is a very dangerous game. It is playing Russian Roulette with the finest services the state has been able to build up over four decades.

It is risking the discreditation of higher education, or in any case, seriously lowering the quality of the state's colleges. Who will suffer? The bright young minds of our state.

It is sending shock waves throughout nursing homes and mental institutions where the state has a moral commitment to health care for the needy elderly and the afflicted.

It is inviting drunken drivers and speed demons to run wild on the highways. It is putting dilapidated, outdated textbooks in the hands of school kids.

On and on, and on... throughout the state government, it will be a gigantic step backwards for a state which is still trying to move up in the same league with most Americans.

Those in the Legislature who realized that they had failed miserably to prevent the dismantling of state services, and tried to do something to stop it, were the most frustrated. At the end they saw there was nothing they could do to stop it happening, and they gave up.

Privately, one beaten down lawmaker who occupies a major position said: "I guess we are just going to have to let the shock sink in before anything will happen."

The great tragedy of the 1986 session is that lawmakers did some of the most progressive work in the first three days of the session by funding kindergartens and fulfilling their commitment to $1,000 teacher pay raises. From there, the session went straight downhill, finally ending in chaos.

When the lawmakers return to their hometowns, it's almost inevitable they are going to face a very angry press and public, and the charge will rightfully be made that the 1986 session did not act responsibly in funding state governmental services.

If you work and get Social Security checks...

Be sure to let Social Security know if you expect to earn more than the annual exempt amount.

*In 1986, the exempt amount for people under 65 is $7,800 for those 65 and over.

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
Social Security Administration

But the blame for irresponsibility must also be placed on Gov. Bill Allain, who set the tone for a legislative disaster. Allain painted himself into a corner before the session ever started by declaring he would veto any tax bill as a way of helping to solve the budgetary crunch.

His own executive budget offered no solution, other than massive cuts (for example, $18 million in higher education across-the-board) and using self-generated funds that didn't exist to make some agencies' budgets look better than they were.

Then when the revenue estimate for FY 87 had to be lowered another 11.5 percent, Allain showed no recognition of the negative impact that had on his originally proposed budget.

He came along 51 days after the session started with what he called his "plan" to recoup $80 million (the budget chunk of which he said would come from the overnight closing of Mississippi University for Women and Mississippi Valley State).

What he didn't admit was that the deficit between what institutions were supposed to have gotten for FY 1986 and available revenues for FY 87 was not $80 million, but $184 to $220 million.

In short, none of Allain's recommendations for reducing state spending had any basis in realism.

It was quite ironic last week that Allain accused the Legislature of using "smoke and mirrors" in putting together a budget relief bill that included some of his proposals, such as charging a fee to visit state parks.

Where the Legislature must be faulted is that it allowed some influential lawmakers, particularly Rep. H. L. Sonny Merideith, the House Ways and Means chairman, who was delighted with Allain's tax veto stance, to set its agenda.

Even though a solid majority of the Senate favored a tax bill (particularly one to restore the 1979 income tax cuts), it could never find any bargaining chips in dealing with the House.

It is almost a certainty that the Legislature is appropriating money for FY 87 which the state doesn't have, or will never collect. That's what they call deficit spending in Washington.

Down here we call it Magnolia Madness.

Legislative Update

Week of March 31

By Rosa Lee H. Jones
The House and Senate both agreed to consider a $26 million budget balancing proposal that includes extending the legislative session to April 15.

Worked out in a House-Senate conference committee, the compromise cut less out of the budget than the House wanted but avoided a Senate attempt at a tax increase. The original House plan called for $107 million in budget cuts.

The compromise was expected to spark heated debate in both houses. Additionally, many issues defeated earlier during the session may be brought back up as legislators try to find ways to cut spending because tax collections are far below predicted levels.

The House also gave the nod to dipping into the state's "special fund" agencies, including the Highway Department, to make the budget cuts.

Statewide banking, including a provision for mergers with out-of-state banks beginning in 1988, won approval in both houses. Mississippi is the last state to enact some form of statewide banking.

The House overwhelmingly passed a bill to give homeowners a tax break by shifting some of the burden to utilities and vehicles. If a constitutional amendment is ratified in November, homes will be assessed at 10 percent rather than 15 percent. Vehicles and utilities will remain at 30 percent.

A bill requiring parental consent or a court order before a minor can get an abortion passed the House and Senate after a conference committee worked out the details of the bill.

Financing of city and county school districts will be on the same basis if Gov. Bill Allain signs the uniform school law passed this week. The law forces county supervisors to levy taxes to fund county schools.

The House voted to authorize the construction of new facilities for 1,500 more prison inmates with money from bail bonds and misdemeanor fines. The original Senate version of the bill would build the facility at the State Penitentiary at Parchman.

The House voted to reject a compromise bill to redistribute property taxes on Grand Gulf nuclear plant in Port Gibson to the counties that use the power.

VOTING RECORDS

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Through April 3

This rules suspension resolution allows consideration of a $26 million budget cut and an extension of the legislative session until April 15. This resolution is the product of a Senate-House conference committee that worked to iron out differences between the two chambers. It passed. Yea - 82, Nay - 38, Absent or not voting - 2, Phillips - Yea.

This bill allows banks to expand statewide through mergers or new branches. It also will allow mergers with out-of-state banks in two years. Banks in towns with populations below 3,100 will be protected from mergers until 1987, when it will be extended to towns with 5,500 or less. It passed. Yea - 102, Nay - 14, Absent or not voting - 6, Phillips - Nay.

This vote gave approval to a compromise bill that would reduce the property tax load on homeowners if voters ratify a companion constitutional amendment. Yea - 114, Nay - 4, Absent or not voting - 4, Phillips - Absent/Not Voting.

This bill requires that girls under the age of 18 obtain the consent of their parents, or a court order, before having an abortion. It passed. Yea - 79, Nay - 38, Absent or not voting - 5, Phillips - Yea.

This bill authorizes the construction of new facilities for 1,500 more prison inmates with money from bail bonds and misdemeanor fines. Yea - 89, Against - 30, Absent and not voting - 3, Phillips - Yea.

This compromise bill adds $600 million to the monies that the Fiscal Management Board has from which to make future cuts. Agencies affected include the Highway Department, the Secretary of State's office, the Personnel Board, the Department of Welfare and the Central Data Processing Authority. It passed. Yea - 117, Nay - 5, Absent or not voting - 1, Phillips - Yea.

(In a related bill, the House voted unanimously to approve a bill to cut $632,541 out of the Highway Department's current $468 million budget for use in the general fund.)

This bill establishes a compromise plan for reorganizing state health services by abolishing the Health Care Commission, Hospital Commission and Hospital Reimbursement Commission and turns their duties over to the Health Department. It passed. Yea - 104, Nay - 16, Absent - 2, Phillips - Absent/Not Voting.

This bill places county and municipal school districts on the same fiscal status and requires county boards of supervisors to levy taxes to fund county school district budgets. It passed. Yea - 84, Nay - 36, Paired - 2, Phillips - Absent/Not Voting.

VOTING RECORDS

FOR THE SENATE

Through April 3

The Senate agreed with the House (Friday, March 28) to pave the way for extending the legislative session to April 15 by passing a resolution. Red Cross blood drive set Hancock County needs blood bank contributions, according to Irene Glacini of Waveland, American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 77 Blood Bank Committee chairman.

A blood drawing will be conducted from 2 to 7 p.m. Wednesday at the American Legion post home in Waveland.

"If you are between the ages of 17 and 65, in good health, please come out and give," Glacini said.

"It is possible someday either you or a member of your family may need blood and if the blood bank has none, someone could die," she stated.

AMNESTY WEEK—"Molly" a golden retriever, waits for the doors to the Bay St. Louis Library to open Monday in order to return his master's long overdue library book during Amnesty Week., April 6-13. Past due materials can be returned without fine to any public library or book depository through Sunday, April 13.

Amnesty Week celebrated at local public libraries

Overdue books, payment for lost books and even letters of apology are being received by the public libraries in Hancock County during Amnesty Week, April 6-13.

Rosa Jackson, adult services supervisor for the main library, reports that hundreds of books due since 1977 have been returned to the bookdrop on Ulman Street since Amnesty Week began Sunday, April 6.

"We've even had three books returned from out-of-state," reports Jackson, "and several people have included notes of apology along with their overdue books," the supervisor said.

"Forgiveness" boxes have been placed at Hancock North Central High School and Baldree's Store in Pearlinton as well as in each of the public libraries in an attempt to recover thousand's of overdue books," Jackson continued.

The amnesty period is being offered prior to delinquent accounts being turned over to a collection agency which specializes in the recovery of outstanding books, fines and fees.

Persons wanting to verify the status of their library accounts should call the Bay St. Louis Library at 467-5282; the Kila Library at 255-1724; or the Waveland Library at 467-9240.

'Jail and Bail' is coming

Are you looking for a chance to get even with your family, friends, or boss? The March of Dimes will give you the opportunity April 23 and 24 when it sponsors 'Jail and Bail' in Hancock County.

For a $10 fee a local citizen of your choice can be 'arrested and jailed' in the Jitney Jungle Jail House in Bay St. Louis. The arrested person will never know, unless you want him to, who sent a police officer or deputy to pick him up.

A judge will pronounce 'sentence' on the convict after you select the charges, and then set his bail. The 'Arrestee' is always found guilty. He will then be given a striped jail coat and hat and put into the 'Jail' where telephones will be available for him to call friends and raise the bail money—in the form of contributions to the March of Dimes. No one will be kept in jail for more than one hour, unless the March of Dimes gets more pledges to keep him there.

To schedule your victim's time and date of arrest, call 467-9048.

All proceeds go toward the continuing efforts of the March of Dimes to give every baby a healthy start in life.

Coast Episcopal Schools planning fund-raiser party

Coast Episcopal Schools is sponsoring 'Sunday on Wisteria,' a fund raising garden party featuring four homes on tour, jazz music and lunch served on the grounds of the homes located in Beechurst area off Wisteria Drive.

The event is scheduled for Sunday, April 20 from noon to 4 p.m. just off US-90 where Wisteria and Camilla Drives meet.

Admission is $20 per person. Reservations may be made by calling 452-7954 or 255-1203.

Supervisors approve using seawall funds

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has again diverted seawall tax funds. This time, the funds will be used for sewerage systems in four county subdivisions.

The board agreed unanimously Monday to a funding proposal by Board President A.A. Kellar, who also represents the county on the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District board.

The board has earmarked $97,500 for sewerage under an amendment to a recent board order that took other funds from the account, which has been used for the past several years to pay off bonds for Port Blenville Industrial Park and Stennis Airport.

The other funds included $77,000 in matching money for the first year of a US Army Corps of Engineers shore protection study and $54,000 to repay costs of clean-up and repairs after Hurricanes Juan and Elena.

Kellar said the $97,500 will cover the costs of Segment V of a five-part project by the district only until the end of the current fiscal year.

Segment V will provide sewerage collection systems for Shoreline Estates, also known as Garden Isles; part of Shoreline Park; Jourdan River Estates and Jourdan River Isles.

The collection systems will bring untreated sewerage to a proposed lift station on Chapman Road, then to the Bay St. Louis lagoon and the Waveland treatment plant for processing, District Administrator Ethel Schott said.

The $97,500 will be split into $53,700 to be paid by June 15 and $43,800 to be paid by September 1, said Ray Eaton of Jackson, who has been negotiating with the district for the design contract on Segment V.

Eaton's contract with the district was scheduled to be finalized at a special Wednesday night meeting of the district board.

Eaton said the payments were scheduled to comply with project deadlines set by the US Environmental Protection Agency and Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control.

He explained that the $97,500 is "up-front money" and is expected to be reimbursed to the county through a combination of funds from Environmental Protection Agency, Farmers Home Administration and tax revenues from a proposed utility district.

According to Kellar, neither the wastewater district nor the county has taken any action as yet on creation of a utility district.

At Monday's meeting, he told the supervisors that such a district would enable the levying of a special tax to help maintain the proposed system.

Eaton said 85 percent of construction and related services for the four subdivision systems would not come out of those tax revenues because that much funding will be supplied through an Environmental Protection Agency grant program.

Kellar told the board the special district, which may have to be created through a local and private bill if it is not covered in the legislation that created the wastewater district, could also provide funds for sewerage areas outside the Segment V area.

If the district were designed to cover all parts of the county south of Interstate 10, excluding those areas already sewered, it could help the county avoid a threatened moratorium by the Bureau of Pollution Control.

Kellar explained that an agreement has been worked out between the State Board of Health, Bureau of Pollution Control and the wastewater district for approval of permits for individual onsite wastewater treatment devices where there is no sewerage and where septic tanks do not work properly, which in Hancock County includes most of the property south of I-10.

Approval, however, is contingent upon the existence of plans for a future sewerage system, which presently exist only for the Segment V area.

The board president reminded the supervisors that plans must be made in order to obtain the permits, which are needed for property owners who wish to buy, sell or build homes with federal financing.

The bureau can, in effect, place a moratorium on the county by refusing permits and can then fine the county for sanitation violations resulting from lack of sewerage, Kellar explained.

Budget cuts anticipated

Layoffs not expected in Bay school district

BY DENA BISNETTE

No teachers in the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District are expected to lose their jobs to budget cuts next year.

In order to meet an April 8 deadline, the Bay School Board approved a proposal Monday recommending that all of the district's teachers be rehired.

However, board members will have to wait until the end of the current legislative session to find out how much money they will have available to pay those teachers, Superintendent J.D. McCullough said.

McCullough said the district currently has a faculty of 104. He recommends a faculty of 94 to 96 teachers for the 1986-87 school term but feels that there is no need to lay off the additional eight or 10 currently employed.

He said he feels attrition through retirement, transfers and relocations will take care of the problem.

"We feel safe that we can employ these teachers but we will not be able to offer a contract until the legislature finishes its job," the superintendent said.

"If the cuts come, we will look at your extra-curricular activities first and not at those items that will affect our state accreditation."

He said contracts will be similar to a uniform state contract distributed by the State Department of Education, with the exception of two sections added into the local contract.

Those two sections consist of requirements for completion of annual staff development programs and an agreement stating that the district has the right to reassign a teacher at any time.

In addition, the board agreed on a recommendation to rehire its office employees, non-certified staff and janitorial and maintenance workers.

Administrators were recommended at a February meeting.

McCullough said he plans to present the board with a proposed salary scale as soon as the district is able to learn how much legislation and kindergarten costs will affect the 1986-87 budget.

"I will do everything I can to recommend to this board a scale we can live with," he said.

In other business, the board:

—Approved Architect Jules LaGarde's final plans for a kindergarten building at Waveland

Elementary School and agreed to advertise for an April 17 bid opening;

—Approved changing the office hours of Bay Junior High School's guidance counselor to include 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 a.m.;

—Approved a request from Board Member Linda Penrose that district science fair winners be honored at the next board meeting; —Approved appointment of a committee consisting of Board Members Betty Diboll and Reginald Robinson and Administrators James Magee, Frank Ladner and W.J. Cameron; which will study the district's counseling program and recommend improvements to the board.

—Took into the board records a letter from Bay High Librarian Mary Frances Hillman concerning the results of an investigation with a problem concerning board meeting tapes; and —Discussed a proposal by Diboll concerning back-up legal counsel for occasions when Board Attorney Lucien Gex is unavailable.

The board meets again at 7 p.m. April 14.

ARTIST PROFILED—Mississippi-born artist Bill Dunlap is seated beside his massive work known as the Corcoran Panorama which is the subject of a new Mississippi ETV documentary to be broadcast at 9 p.m. Thursday, April 10, and rebroadcast at 6 p.m. Saturday, April 12. The Corcoran Panorama, which consists of 14 canvases, each six by eight feet, is currently on display at the Mississippi Museum of Art in Jackson, where it will be exhibited until May 11.

Consumer Update

Child support payments...

As of October 1985, employers must withhold delinquent child support if notified by the proper state authorities. Employers will be liable for amounts that should have been withheld but were not.

New IRS penalties...

The IRS says that those who file returns late will be assessed a five percent negligence fee. The fee is assessed on the entire tax liability shown on the tax return.

It will be assessed regardless of whether your taxes are paid at the time you file. If you had thought penalties were only due if you owed a balance on income tax, think again.

Other tax news...

For the first the IRS will hold tax refunds due delinquent debtors of government-backed student loans. Over 750,000 delinquent debtors' names have been given to the IRS for review for 1985 returns.

If you got a state or local tax refund in 1985, you must report this as part of your income for 1985 if you itemized deductions in 1984, as you will owe a tax on this money. If you took the standard deductions in 1984 you won't owe a tax on this money.

Review your W-4 (Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate) if you have averaged an $850 return for the past few years. You are allowed up to 14 exemptions.

Each allowance you take means less money will be withheld by your employer and more for you to affect your financial independence monthly rather than lose 10 months of excess due to withholding.

County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

MAKE PLANS TO PLANT

The first few days of warm weather usually bring out the green thumb in all of us. But to be a successful gardener, follow the motto "plan now and plant later."

Plan your garden based on how much you and your family can use and preserve. It's easy to plant more seeds in a few minutes that will take hours to harvest later.

Old gardening hands know how much to plant to fit their needs. New gardeners can get help from the county Extension office. We also have information on which varieties will grow best in this area.

In making out your garden plan, consider the things you and your family like. Be careful when planning new kinds of vegetables you or your family may not like. You may want to start on a small scale until you are sure of family acceptance.

Another important part of planning a garden is having your garden soil tested. The results will help you determine fertilizer amounts and which crops are best suited for your soil. We have all the information you need on collecting a soil sample.

Oysters can be eaten in months with an 'r'

Oyster lovers, take heart! In spite of the old adage that oysters should not be eaten during months with an "r" in their name, scientists at Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs assure consumers that they can safely enjoy this seafood delicacy during warm weather months.

However, although summertime oysters are safe to eat, they usually lack much of the flavor and visual appeal of the more succulent oysters harvested in Mississippi waters from October through April.

"Like many old wives' tales, this saying does have foundation in fact," said Dr. David W. Cook, head of GCRL's Seafood Quality and Technology.

"Oysters spoil very rapidly at high temperatures because of accelerated bacterial growth," Dr. Cook explained. "The belief that oysters were unsafe to eat from May through August arose many years ago before adequate methods of refrigeration were developed."

"Oysters which have been properly harvested, handled and refrigerated are wholesome and nutritious throughout the year," Dr. Cook continued. "However, changes in appearance and flavor occur during the summer months when oysters spawn which make them less appealing to the consumer."

He pointed out an admonition in a

1925 edition of Practical Dietetics which said, "Oysters are in season from September to May. During the rest of the year they are insipid and soft and unfit for food."

Allison Perry, coordinator of GCRL's Office of Fisheries Assistance, noted that oysters are fattest and juiciest in cold months because they are storing energy in the form of a carbohydrate called glycogen.

"During the summer months, oysters lose their fullness and creamy color as they use this energy for growth and reproduction," Perry said.

"Reproductive fluids give spawning oysters a milky appearance," stated Dr. Edwin W. Cake, Jr., head of the laboratory's oyster biology section. "This condition gives oysters a different flavor which is not unpalatable, but which is not as tasty as the flavor of plump winter oysters."

"Oysters generally spawn twice each season, early and late in the summer," Dr. Cake said. "Late in the season, an oyster is spawned out and retains little taste or substance. A person would have to be a die-hard oyster lover to eat one in this condition."

Oyster harvesting prohibitions once based on health concerns are now directed toward fishery management standards, and Dr. Cake acknowledged that restrictions on oyster harvesting in months without an "r" in them are still on the books in many states.

"Some fishery management interests will not interfere with an organism's inalienable right to reproduce," Dr. Cake commented. "Concerns about depleting the population with year-round harvests have little validity, since each female oyster may release up to 150 million eggs into the water column during each spawning season."

GCRL fisheries management section head William J. Demoran points out that in Mississippi, where summer oyster harvests are prohibited, product quality is a prime objective of state management programs.

"Oyster quality is deficient during the summer," Demoran maintained. "Harvesting depleted oysters during spawning is a wasteful practice."

"In Louisiana, most oysters are harvested from private leases and may be harvested year-round, and Alabama and Florida usually allow a summer harvest," Demoran said. "These oysters fill in the gap during the warm months and are safe to eat if they are harvested and handled

BOTTOM RUNG ADVANTAGE
Rural people scattered up and down the backroads of Mississippi long have had a special interest in the progress and condition of this state's road system, and that interest remains strong today despite an evolution of surfaces from dirt and gravel to asphalt and concrete. Farmers long have strongly supported state-aided farm-to-market roads which have essentially gotten them "out of the mud" and moved the crops they produced to market quicker and more efficiently.

They do not want to see these strides in transportation slackened and have advocated adequate roads for decades now in their resolutions and processes. Their concern sent this writer to the Mississippi Highway Department to see if a threat exists to the road system of the state today in view of state budgetary problems with claims and counterclaims being heard in high echelons of state government.

Statistics available to anyone who goes seeking them prove that Mississippi is sticking to its traditional bottom rung position when it comes to funding and executing its road building and maintenance contracts—but these figures seem to prove that this is one time it pays good dividends to be a bottom-ranger.

For instance, while Mississippi spends $50,000 per mile for maintenance resurfacing, Louisiana spends an additional $5,000 per mile for the same work. Arkansas whips out $2,200 to remedy the potholes and keep her asphalt highways in reasonably good shape, while Mississippi spends only $1,160 for the same purpose.

Whose figures are these, you might ask? They come from Robert Hollimon, assistant chief engineer for operations, Mississippi Highway Department, and were obtained from a report for fiscal year 1983, the latest figures available for comparison purposes.

The same source points out that the cost of maintaining one mile of interstate highway in Mississippi is $6,206—compared to $8,177 in Alabama and $12,831 in Louisiana. This amounts to a rather topheavy incentive for bottom-rungism in Mississippi when you consider the fact that Mississippi's road surfaces are probably about the same quality as those of her sister states.

When it comes to highway construction costs, Mississippi still enjoys an advantageous position in any categories, according to the federal Highway Administration. Excavation costs are $1.61 per cubic yard here while the national average is $1.75. Structural concrete costs incurred by the Mississippi State Highway Department are $199.57 per cubic yard while the national average is $213.85.

Maybe Mississippi's topography favors this state when it comes to bridging streams and dips, but the average cost of a bridge built in Mississippi by the highway folks is $33 per square foot, considerably less than the national average of $54.

Mississippi highway projects are considerably more conservative than those in sister states. In 1985 Mississippi spent in excess of $305 million on highway construction and maintenance. At the same time Alabama's expenditures for the same purposes amounted to $492.3 million and Tennessee's were $571.9 million.

The other side of the picture is that asphalt paving costs $25.50 per ton in Mississippi compared to a national average of $24.27. Mississippi likewise pays more heavily for heavy structural steel at the rate of 80 cents per pound of steel here compared to only 71 cents per pound as a national average. Still we rank 11th in the nation in our structural steel costs per pound. Not too bad. And even better when the comparison figures show that Mississippi beats the national average when it comes to buying its reinforcing steel and structural concrete.

These aren't such bad figures for us to think about whether tightly gripped on the bottom rung of national highway financing, or while zipping down beautiful four laned Highway 39 south to the charming Mississippi Gulf Coast!

Bay Little Theatre opens 40th season

In cooperation with Samuel French, Inc., the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre opens its 40th season with the Neil Simon comedy hit "God's Favorite" April 17, 18 and 19 at the playhouse on Boardman Avenue.

Under the directorship of Becky Rotundo the cast is a blend of Coastians from Waveland to Biloxi.

Appearing in an updated version of the Biblical story of Job are Al Becker as the modern Job, Joe Benjamin; Sally Rodrigue as his wife, the neurotic, but delightful Rose; and Tom Bagwill portrays the devil-may-care oldest son Davis. Kissy Byrd and Tim Proulx appear as the twins Sarah and Ben, Joe Benjamin's cross and delight in life.

Cameo appearances are made by Carol and Danny Young as the Benjamin household staff.

Andy Kalbert, a Gulf Coast favorite, recreates the role of God's messenger, Sidney Lipton, originally portrayed on Broadway by Charles Nelson Reilly.

Reservations for the production are suggested and may be made by calling 467-6432 between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. beginning April 14.

Reservations should also be made by season ticket holders. Tickets will be available on a first come, first serve basis at the door.

A limited number of season tickets are still available and may be reserved when reserving seats.

Season tickets are $12 and entitle the bearer to see all three regular season productions. Regular admission is $5.

The theatre doors open at 7:45 with an 8:15 curtain.

SWIMMING WITH ALLIGATORS—Alligator expert Kent Vilet studies and photographs the behavior of alligators as he cautiously swims with as many as 150 alligators in a man-made lake at the St. Augustine Alligator Farm. Vilet is featured in the National Geographic special "Realm of the Alligator" at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 16, on Mississippi ETV.

Wildcats take three

The Pearl River College Wildcat baseball team, in a doubleheader with St. Bernard Community College Saturday on the road, won the first game 6-3, dropping the second 4-1.

Paul Dugle picked up the win in the first game for the Wildcats as he pushed his record on the mound to 4-3. In the contest, he gave up only three hits while striking out five.

Everette Reagan was the leading hitter at the plate for the Wildcats as he collected two singles and Britt Baxter chalked up his eighth home run of the season.

In the second game Mike Smeltzer suffered the loss on the mound even though St. Bernard could only muster three hits in the contest.

Ron Delaney picked up the only Wildcat run with a solo home run. Delaney also picked up a single with Randy Habetz collecting a double.

The split brought the Wildcats overall record to 21-13.

Wildcats Win Two Over Co-Lin

The Pearl River College Wildcats sailed by the Co-Lin Wolves 14-4 in the first game of a double-header Thursday. But the second win didn't come as easy to the 'Cats as they held the Wolves down to a 14-10 contest.

The 'Cats got off to a roaring start in the second game scoring seven runs in the first inning.

But according to Eades, the "defense became shabby."

The brighter side of the Wildcats shone in the first game when they brought in four runs in the first inning, three in the third, two in the fourth and five in the fifth to shut down the Co-Lin Wolves.

Ole Miss football films will be restored, sold

University of Mississippi football fans can purchase videos of great Ole Miss victories while contributing to a new project to finance restoration of highlights and game films dating back to the early 1950s.

Tom Rieland, director of the University's Communication and Resource Center, in cooperation with the Department of Athletics, is offering a package of five videos immediately. With funds raised from the sale, many of the hundreds of old films of Rebel games will be restored from a state of continuing deterioration, he said.

"We hope to develop as many as a dozen video packages this fall," said Rieland. "We especially hope that alumni will want to own some of them, knowing that the money will go for a good cause."

Langston Rogers, assistant athletic director for sports information, noted, "It's a great opportunity for Rebel fans to re-live Ole Miss football history."

Among the highlight packages available for $19.95 now are:

*1962 - Highlights and interviews during the perfect 9-0 season.

*1977 - Highlights and interviews of the 20-13 upset victory over Notre Dame.

SPORT HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Unless you have a history of suffering from back pain, you probably have never noticed just how much abuse your back is exposed to on a regular basis. Prolonged sitting without appropriate support of the lower back, improper postural habits, poor lifting techniques, inadequate sleeping support, and even obesity, are all sources of physical stress that can potentially injure a healthy back. Combine any one of these with weak, poorly conditioned muscles supporting the spine, and you have the prime ingredients for developing low back pain.

Studies on back injuries suggest that a large number of all incidences occur following exposure of a weak back to physical stress or trauma. It seems logical, therefore, that most back injuries could be prevented by reducing the level of physical stress placed on the back, and by participating in a regular strength and flexibility program aimed at the supporting muscle groups.

The following tips are intended to help you avoid high risk, high stress situations known to cause back injury and pain. Those of you who are presently experiencing back discomfort may also benefit depending upon the nature of your problem.

SITTING

• Your knees should be parallel to or slightly higher than your hips. Use a small stool to support your feet if necessary.

• Avoid slouching in your chair. At the same time do not sit on the chair's edge and lean forward for long periods.

• Make sure your lower back is supported. One effective technique is to place a pillow or rolled up towel behind you while sitting to maintain the normal curvature of the spine. Several commercial low back supports designed especially for this purpose are available.

• Avoid situations that cause you to reach or otherwise cause prolonged muscular contraction of the shoulder and back muscles. Always adjust your chair height according to the height of your work station or desk (remember the foot stool for your feet), and position your chair so that your hands rest comfortably while you work.

• Never sit for more than 30 minutes without a short break. Stand up, do a few back bends and other stretches to relieve muscle tension and promote circulation.

Next week this column will include tips for protecting your back while standing or lifting.

SPORT HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Diet and exercise are key ingredients in avoiding osteoporosis, the bone disease associated with loss of calcium from the bones. This disease, which results in porous, brittle bones that break easily, affects eight times as many women as men. This is due, in part, to the fact that men's bones are denser than women's.

One out of every four women will develop osteoporosis. Two reasons for this near epidemic rise are that people are living longer and women have become increasingly obsessive about dieting—often beginning in the teenage years. Those at greatest risk developing osteoporosis are fair-skinned, thin females with small frames as well as those women whose ovaries were removed at an early age.

What can be done to prevent and/or treat osteoporosis? According to the National Institute of Health, women at thirty-five should be getting 1,000 milligrams of calcium daily; after menopause, calcium intake should be increased to 1,500 milligrams per day. Doctors agree calcium is best obtained through foods such as milk, cottage cheese, yogurt, prunes, nuts, salmon and sardines. If this recommended amount of calcium is not supplied through food, calcium supplements may be added at the direction of a physician.

Vigorous exercise is also recommended to prevent bone loss as well as stimulate bone growth. Effective exercises are those that make bones bear weight such as walking, jogging and racket games.

Every woman should discuss with her physician this life threatening disease.

Bassin' with the pros

SPRING TACKLE CARE TIPS

Over the many years I've been fishing, I often have found myself in a situation where I've asked, "Now how would a pro handle this?"

"Bassin' with the Pros" is a new column that will feature professional bass fishermen providing the answers to many of the questions I've asked, and I hope to many of your questions as well.

The column also will offer tips on fishing equipment and its proper use, and care to help all of us catch more bass.

Before you hit the water for the first day of the new season, you should make sure your equipment is as ready for bass action as you are. Spring is the time of year that most anglers inspect their tackle—that is, if they inspect it at all. 'Tis the season to check over your rods, reels, line, lures and tackleboxes.

With the costs of these items going up each year, proper maintenance can keep these tools productive for many, many years.

Here's the basic 'spring workout' that I take my gear through.

Tackleboxes—Completely empty the boxes and sort the contents according to types of tackle. Once the box is empty, remove any rust left by the lures and any film residue.

I use an old toothbrush and a mild dishsoap for this job. Rinse the box thoroughly, blot it dry, and then let it air dry. I complete the cleaning process with an inspection of the box's hardware—handles, latches, etc.

Sharpen hooks—This is probably one of the most important areas overlooked by most anglers. A good, sharp hook will catch more fish.

There are two types of hooks, the straight-point and curved-point. Each is sharpened differently.

The straight-point hook is sharpened with a file at three different angles to make a triangular-shaped cutting edge.

The curved-point hook is attacked with a rounded hone, which sharpens the two sides of the hook. If you can't eye the sharpness of the cutting edges, here's a test that my father taught me: drag the hook across your thumbnail. If the hook 'sticks' into your nail while you are applying little or no pressure, then the hook is sharp.

Plugs—Polish your plugs with a damp cloth. Eliminate any rust on the hooks and put the original shape back into them with a needlenosed pliers. Check the lips, hook hangers, propellers and blades.

Spinnerbaits—Check all the metal parts for the slightest sign of rust. I touch up and lead heads that show chipping. I look at the skirts and replace those that have seen better days. I wash each lure with a damp rag and wipe dry.

Spinners—Check all the metal parts for that nasty rust and remove it wherever it occurs. Inspect the clevises and blades for effortless operation. Then, give the spinners a quick coating of demulsifying oil.

Jigs—Check the lead heads for chipping and repaint them if necessary. Also, look over the skirts for wear, tear and discoloration. Retie the skirts out of bucktail or FishHair.

Soft plastics—I keep all my soft plastic lures in a separate tacklebox, or transfer a few of my favorite plastic worms to baby food jars for leak-proof storage. The soft plastic lure contains plasticizer, an oily substance that gives the plastic its pliability.

The plasticizer can leak with age or heat and can damage other lures stored nearby. If your soft plastic 'springs a leak,' be sure to scour the affected compartment and discard the pieces struck by the 'oil spill.'

Line—If you remember that the only thing between you and a trophy bass is your line, you might start taking a lot more interest in its condition. Cut off about five feet of line after every two or three hours of fishing. Remove any portion of line that shows nicks or abrasions.

Rods—Wash your rods with a dishsoap solution and wipe them dry. Inspect the blanks, handles, guides, tips, and wrapping for wear. If there is something wrong, don't hesitate to take the rod to a qualified repair shop for the necessary improvement.

Reels—All reels need to be periodically oiled and greased according to the manufacturer's instructions. As a rule of thumb, I take my reels to a repair shop every year for their 'spring tuneup'—much like I take my car in for its checkup. I have the shop check parts for wear, repair or replace parts necessary, oil and grease the reels and put on new line. With the proper care and maintenance, reels should last you many, many years.

OMC has introduced a new partially synthetic outboard lubricant designed for today's high performance V-6 outboards. Called Johnson GT and Evinrude XP High Performance lubricant, OMC says the product offers better engine protection at high RPMs, reduced piston scuffing and ring sticking and reduced carbon buildup.

Both lubricants may be used in any outboard at the manufacturer's recommended fuel/lubricant ratio.

Have any questions you'd like a bass pro to answer? Jot it down and mail it to "Bassin' with the Pros" at this newspaper. Answers to your questions will appear in a future column.

AEGIS FLEET AT INGALLS—The Aegis guided missile cruiser Antietam (CG 54), eighth ship in the U.S. Navy's newest, most powerful cruiser class, rolls past her sister ship, CG 55, toward launching recently at Ingalls Shipbuilding, division of Litton in Pascagoula. The seventh cruiser to be built by Ingalls, CG 54 will be christened by Maryland Congresswoman Beverly E. Byron in ceremonies in Pascagoula on April 19. CG 55, presently in module integration, will be launched in June. Lead shipbuilder for the Ticonderoga (CG 47)

Class of Aegis guided missile cruisers, Ingalls has been awarded contracts to build 13 of the 19 Aegis cruisers authorized by Congress thus far. Four of the ships, USS Ticonderoga (CG 47), USS Yorktown (CG 48), USS Vincennes (CG 49), and USS Valley Forge (CG 50), are now in the fleet. Two additional ships, Bunker Hill (CG 52) and Mobile Bay (CG 53), will be delivered by Ingalls during the next eight months. (Ingalls Shipbuilding photo)

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

LOWER COST KEYED TO LAND PLANNING
Q. There appears to be more and more residential construction on smaller lots. What is the trend toward the size lots used in development? F. Y., McComb

A. Dear F. Y.:
 More and more top residential designers are turning their attention to land planning as a means of trimming, or at least slowing down, the cost of residential construction.

In some parts of the country the trend is toward small-lot detached housing, with as many as eight or nine single-family homes to the acre. In terms of density, this compares favorably with the typical town-house development made popular a few years ago.

The reason for more and more attention being directed toward land cost is quite simple. While the cost of labor and materials has decreased over the last few years, the cost of purchasing and developing land has increased dramatically.

The impact of higher land cost on the consumer should be that in the next few years, the purchaser will see more innovative plans for sites as builders move away from putting up houses in long, regimented rows, one right after the other.

Currently land planners are touting the "double-zero Z-lot" concept, a variation from the zero-lot line concept pioneered more than 15 years ago. Under the zero-lot line plan, the house is placed up against the side lot line, which results in one useable side yard in place of two unusable side yards. Such a design does, however, present certain design problems, such as the inability to put windows in the side located on the line. Under the double-zero Z-lot approach, the lot has one or more zigzags and zags in its shape and the house is designed so it touches both side lot lines, hence the term "double-zero." This shaped lot allows for more flexibility in house design, as well as better use of all the land in a development.

For answers to questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P. O. Box 295, University, Mississippi 38677.

Epilepsy Foundation names Manning 1986 'Humanitarian'

Archie Manning, former Ole Miss and New Orleans Saint quarterback, will be cited by the Epilepsy Foundation of Mississippi as its 1986 Humanitarian of the Year.

The award will be presented to Manning at a statewide testimonial dinner April 8, at the Coliseum Ramada Inn in Jackson. Tickets to the event are available through tax deductible donations of $50 per person to the foundation.

Proceeds from the dinner will be used by the foundation to provide a variety of services to Mississippians affected by the seizure disorder condition.

These monies augment statewide United Way support to ensure general education, client assistance, and social and vocational counseling.

Former Ole Miss head football coach John Vaught will serve as honorary chairman of the dinner. Co-chairmen are William J. 'Billy' VanDevender, Mayor Dale Danks Jr., A.F. 'Skipper' Jernigan, Alfred Katool, and Al Flannes, all of Jackson.

Co-hosts are George P. Hewes, Thomas M. Elzen, E.B. 'Bud' Robinson Jr., Frank Day, Taylor Holland, James E. Poole Jr., J.O. Manning, MD, and Joe Ellis Joseph, all of Jackson; Henry Paris and Frank Crosthwait of Indianola, James T. Speed of Meridian, Robert 'Bob' Kennington of Grenada, Stacy Davidson, MD, of Cleveland, Daniel J. Nicholas Jr. of Yazoo City, Sherman Muths of Gulfport, Tom Swayze, Dr. David Sanasing and Warner Alford, all of the University of Mississippi.

Tickets and additional information may be obtained by contacting one of the co-hosts/co-chairmen, or the Epilepsy Foundation of Mississippi, 2628-B Southerland Street, Jackson, MS 39216; (601) 362-2761.

Firefighters plan roadblocks to benefit burn center

The Mississippi Firefighters Memorial Burn Association has designated Saturday, April 19, as state-wide Roadblock Day for the Mississippi Firefighters Memorial Burn Center.

Firefighters throughout Mississippi and Arkansas will be joined by Communications Workers, Jaycees, Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliaries, Firefighters Auxiliaries and other concerned citizens as they participate in this massive fund-raiser.

Roadblocks will be set up throughout Mississippi and Arkansas where permitted.

Other types of fund-raising will be taking place in areas where roadblocks are not permitted.

Funds collected will be used to help with operational expenses of the Burn Center, located in Greenville.

This 16-bed, highly specialized burn care facility treats burn victims of all ages.

Funds to build the Burn Center were donated by concerned citizens throughout the state, business and industry, and a special grant from the Mississippi Legislature. It became operational in January, 1982, and replaced the 10-bed Burn Unit at Delta Medical Center. Over 650 burn victims have received treatment, with patients coming from most Mississippi counties and some of the surrounding states.

IRS charges Laurel dentist

JACKSON—Federal prosecutors have charged Dr. Rayford J. Harris of Laurel with three counts of failure to file Federal income tax returns for each of the calendar years 1979, 1980 and 1981.

Harris, a dentist, appeared March 26 with his attorney before U.S. Magistrate John R. Countiss III in U.S. District Court and entered 'not guilty' pleas to all counts.

U.S. Attorney George Phillips filed the three-count charge saying that Harris' gross income for the years 1979, 1980 and 1981 was $190,787, $264,534 and $300,066, respectively, for a total of $755,387.

The trial date on the charges has not been set.

Ballet to stage performance

Ballet Mississippi has scheduled two benefit performances in April to benefit the HI USA International Ballet Competition.

The performance will be held April 15 in Columbus at the Whitfield Auditorium, Mississippi University for Women, 7:30 p.m.; and April 21 and 22 in Waynesboro, Mississippi, at the Wayneboro City Auditorium, also at 7:30 p.m. The April 21 performance is sold out, but tickets are still available for the April 22 date.

Dedication set for new Shriners hospital

Dedication of the new $18 million Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Shreveport, La., scheduled for April 13 at 2 p.m., was announced by Joppa Temple Potentate Robert Simmons of Ocean Springs. An open house, including tours of the hospital, will follow.

Potentate Simmons, along with other members of his divan and some 50 members of Joppa Temple located in Gulfport plan on attending the ceremonies.

The Shreveport Shriners Hospital is a 45-bed pediatric orthopaedic hospital with teaching activities. The hospital serves children throughout the south central area providing specialized medical care and services free of charge.

This facility has been built on the same site as the first Shriners Hospital opened in 1922 and is in a network of 22 children's specialty hospitals owned and operated by the Shrine of North America—an international fraternity of approximately 885,000 members.

The Shreveport Shriners Hospital will implement a 'Family Centered Care' approach to treatment, which promotes the emotional and social well-being as well as medical progress of the patient.

The building features atrium malls, outdoor play areas and classrooms designed to facilitate the unique 'Family Centered Care' approach.

To encourage the patient's recovery and treatment, the hospital provides family dining areas, sleepers, and guest rooms for parents who want to stay overnight.

Shrine Temples throughout Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi and Alabama will also join the April 13 open-house festivities by providing entertainment with colorful clowns, color guards and bands.

The Shrine of North America operates 19 orthopaedic hospitals and three burns institutes throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico.

The medical care and services at Shriners Hospitals are provided free of charge to children, up to their 18th birthday, regardless of race, religion or relationship to a Shriner. Since the first Shriners Hospital opened in 1922, the Shrine has substantially helped more than 300,000 children.

DEDICATION SUNDAY—Dedication ceremonies are scheduled Sunday for the new $18 million Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Shreveport, La. An open house is scheduled to follow the 2 p.m. dedication of the 45-bed pediatric orthopaedic hospital with teaching activities. The facility will provide care for children throughout the south central area.

VA adopts inscription change on cemetery markers

Jackson VA Regional Office Director Samuel J. Maraman advised that 'U.S. Army Air Corps' has been added to the list of inscriptions for veterans' gravemarkers placed in national and private cemeteries which the VA provides at no charge.

Prior to the change, personnel who served in the Army Air Corps were identified as having served in the U.S. Army since the Army Air Corps, established in 1926 and the Army Air Force in 1941, were elements of the U.S. Army.

The U.S. Air Force was not established as a separate service until 1947.

Until now, inscriptions indicating service in the U.S. Army Air Corps or Forces were allowed only as additional items on a VA headstone or marker at private expense.

Maraman said the change was made since the organizations involved eventually became a separate branch of service. He emphasized, however, that the new policy is only for future requests and would not be retroactive to existing markers.

For further assistance and information veterans and widows may contact the Jackson VA Regional Office between 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The statewide toll-free number is 1-800-682-5270.

Residents of the Gulfport/Biloxi area may call 432-5996.

News Brief

OFFICE CLOSED

The Hancock County Veterans Service Office will be closed April 10 and 11 while Veterans Service Officer Michael Ladner attends a training session in Jackson.

The office will reopen April 14 after Ladner returns from the annual County Veterans Service Officers Spring Conference.

Ladner said he is attending the conference in order to obtain information on how veterans programs will be affected by the Gramm-Rudmann Budget Control Act.

Chicken has become a popular meat choice for meals all year. It is no longer just a holiday or Sunday food. And chicken is available in many forms. There are broilers, fryers, stewing hens, whole and cut-up parts.

Cut-up chicken, ready-to-cook, is readily available any time. You can buy any part you want.

The choice sections, such as chicken breasts or drumsticks, cost the most per pound. But the other parts make good eating when used in stews, pies and casserole dishes.

When buying chicken, there are some guides to quality that will help you get good-quality birds.

Chickens should have a smooth, thin skin and a flexible breast bone. They should also have a plump appearance, as that is an indication the bird is meaty.

Each part of a cut-up chicken usually makes one serving. But the amount depends on the appetites of the family. Some may want a quarter or a half chicken. For grilling, halves or quarters work best.

Always keep chicken meat cold before and after cooking. When you bring chicken home from the store, unwrap it, wash and pat dry, then wrap loosely in waxed paper.

Store chicken in the refrigerator until time to use it. Fresh, ready-to-cook chicken will keep satisfactorily for two to three days at 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

Keep quick-frozen chicken frozen until time to thaw it before cooking.

You can keep chicken satisfactorily after it is cooked if you keep it cold. Cover left-over chicken and gravy well and store in the refrigerator as soon as possible after the meal. Remove any stuffing from a stuffed bird and refrigerate it separately, making sure that it is well covered.

It is best to use chicken as soon as possible after it has been cooked.

Chicken is usually quite well prepared for cooking when it is purchased. But some additional preparation may be necessary.

To prepare fresh and defrosted chicken, clean and wash the chicken and the giblets. If desired remove skin.

For best eating satisfaction, defrost chicken before broiling, frying or roasting, though it is not necessary before steaming or stewing chicken.

You can defrost in one of two ways. Either leave chicken in its original wrappings and store it in the refrigerator until thawed (size of bird will determine time needed) or thaw the chicken in its original wrappings, under cool, running water. This will take from two to four hours.

The giblets, usually packed inside the bird, should be removed before thawing. They can be thawed the same way as the chicken. Always cook poultry meat promptly after defrosting.

If you cook the bird before it is completely defrosted, allow a little more time than usual for the cooking process to make sure the chicken is completely cooked. Do not hurry by using too high a temperature.

Cooking chicken is easy if you use the correct temperatures and the method of cooking is suited to the kind of bird being cooked.

Always cook chicken until it is well done. It should be fork-tender when the cooking is completed.

Use low to moderate temperatures for all sizes of chicken and all methods of cooking it. The length of time needed will depend on the age and size of the bird, as well as the method of cooking.

Young, tender birds are suitable for frying, broiling, barbecuing and roasting. Older birds are better if they are cooked a longer time as in fricaseeing.

Chicken is one of the high-quality protein foods around which you can plan a complete meal. In addition to protein, chicken meat has some fat. It also contains some valuable minerals and vitamins. Chicken liver is especially rich in iron.

chill hours that they could not be grown in south Mississippi."

Georgia producers market peaches throughout the midwest and eastern United States, accounting for about two-thirds of the nation's demand. The state currently ranks third in the nation in peach production.

In contrast, Mississippi does not rank nationally in peach production and peaches do not rank in the state's income-producing crops.

New varieties of peaches

"Peachy" future forecast for state

By Margaret Wallace
Cooperative Extension Service

Despite production problems in past years, the outlook for peach production is bright in the Southeast and even brighter in Mississippi.

Peach production is relatively new to many areas of the state, but new production practices should make peach production widespread in Mississippi, according to Dr. Gerard Krewer, a horticulturist with the Georgia Cooperative Extension Service.

Krewer addressed about 65 producers and others interested in peach production who attended a Mississippi Peach Producers Association meeting held recently at the Mississippi State University campus.

"One of the major problems peach producers in southern states have faced is choosing the best variety," Krewer said. "It has been hard to grow a variety of peaches that does not require high numbers of chill hours, when the temperature drops below 45 degrees Fahrenheit."

Krewer discussed many varieties that should adapt well to the Mississippi climate and weather conditions. With these new varieties, Krewer said peach production in the state could grow even more.

"Peach production in Mississippi looks very bright since a wider range of varieties is available than a few years ago," Krewer said. "Some of the old varieties needed so many

Q. What are the different types of consumer credit plans?

A. While buying through credit does offer such advantages as the ease of payments made over an extended period of time, credit purchases should be closely examined, regarding their limits and requirements on you, the consumer.

The principle kinds of consumer credit plans are:

—Direct Consumer Loans - This credit transaction is made between the buyer and a financier other than the seller of a product. For example, if you buy a new automobile, you may have the loan financed through your bank or credit union rather than through the dealer. Direct consumer loans are normally repayable in equal monthly installments.

—Retail Installment Contracts - This credit transaction is usually arranged for the purchase of large items. The seller may assign your contract to a financial institution which in turn will contact you and advise you regarding how the loan is to be repaid.

—Revolving Credit - This plan involves the issuance of a credit card, which establishes a "line of credit" that may be used whenever the card is presented. Bank credit cards may be used for making purchases as well as for obtaining "cash advances."

Normally, a time period is granted during which no finance charge is added to the account, but this grace period applies only to purchases, not any "cash advance."

—Budget Accounts - This type of credit is usually offered by a department store and provides for payments to be made over a specified period of time. These accounts may or may not carry a finance charge.

POINTS TO REMEMBER: Always read papers carefully before signing them. Do not sign any paper containing terms you do not understand. Be certain that all blank spaces are filled.

Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality.

Does your IRA earn 9.10%?

With new Zero Coupon Certificates from Hancock Bank your IRA could be earning 9.10% effective annual yield.

That's right. Buy a $1,000 Zero Coupon Certificate from Hancock Bank with your IRA funds. You'll have over $1,500 in just five short years.

That's a higher rate than T-Bills, Treasury Notes, or many other certificates. But just like other certificates, Zero Coupon Certificates are guaranteed up to $100,000 by the FDIC. And, you still get all the tax breaks you get with any other IRA investment.

It takes as little as $1,000 to purchase a Zero Coupon Certificate. There are no extra fees. And you can use your existing IRA funds to purchase additional Certificates.

Of course, a Zero Coupon Certificate takes five years to mature. That's a little longer than other certificates. But for the smart investor who wants his IRA money to work overtime, few investments offer the ease of management and super-high yields of these new Zero Coupon Certificates.

Call Mae Beth Tracy at 868-4406 and find out how easy it is to put your money to work at 9.10%, with Zero Coupon Certificates from Hancock Bank.

HNC seniors tour Northeast

Over the Spring holidays 36 seniors and 4 faculty members of Hancock North Central High School toured the Northeastern section of the United States.

The three principal cities visited were Washington, D.C., New York City, and Boston.

In Washington the group toured the monuments to Jefferson, Lincoln, Washington, and to the two Jima and Vietnam Soldiers.

They saw the Kennedy Center, White House, Capitol, Smithsonian, Arlington, and the Library of Congress.

Exploring Wall Street where they visited the Stock Exchange brought economics alive.

The World Trade Center, Rockefeller Center with a special tour of the NBC Studios, Greenwich Village, Chinatown, Fifth Avenue, a shopping tour of Macy's, and a special visit to the United Nations highlighted the New York City visit.

The group dined at Moma Leone's; saw the Broadway play "Little Shop of Horror," and took a carriage ride through Central Park.

While in Boston the seniors and their chaperones toured Concord and Lexington, Plymouth Rock, the Freedom Trail, the USS Constitution, Old Ironsides, and saw Harvard Yard.

The grand finale of the tour was dinner at Durgin Park for steak and lobster. Then a plane trip home via New Orleans brought the HNC tourists back to Hancock County.

The group included Roberta Adams, Earl Ainsworth, Chad Collier, Freda Ladner, Brad Ladner, Taren Breland, Hilary Necaise, Scott Curet, John Tucei, and Deanna Tynes.

Also, Wendy Carver, Kelly Cremer, Steven Greenfield, Kendra Ladner, Melissa Ladner, Joey Landry, Janice Pucheu, Ladonna Shiyou, Jolene Ladner, and Skip Stierwald.

And, Debbie Burch, Patti Hester, Danette Smith, Jennifer Lacoste, Daryl Lacoste, Brian Necaise, Annie Winn, and Berry Necaise.

Also, Desmond Hoda, Travis Favre, Jamie Favre, Jackie Brown, Stanley Jourdan, Terry Malley, and chaperones Sandra Reid, Debbie Niolet, Wally Fairley and Mike Halley.

James Jacob Dupree has been selected as the STAR Student at Hancock North Central High School. STAR Students are selected on the basis of academic excellence. American College Test scores and scholastic averages are considered in designation of the school's STAR Student.

JAMES DUPREE

The Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) Program encourages and promotes academic achievement among Mississippi's high school seniors, explained J. Kelley Williams of Jackson, chairman of MEC's Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) Committee.

"Top scholars are being designated as STAR Students in over three hundred participating schools in Mississippi. From these STAR Students, the top 20 students in the state are selected, and the Council awards scholarships to the state's top three STAR Students and their STAR Teachers."

Funds for these scholarships are provided by the Phil Hardin Foundation of Meridian.

Each STAR Student is asked to designate a STAR Teacher, a teacher who has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement. Mrs. Betty Gray Allen was designated STAR Teacher.

Both the STAR Student and the STAR Teacher will receive certificates from the Council, in addition to being eligible for competition for scholarship awards.

Seventeen-year-old Dupree is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Dupree of Diamondhead. He plans to study engineering at Mississippi State University after graduation.

Dupree's high school honors, activities and awards include the following:

Two years—Member of the Society of Distinguished American High

BETTY ALLEN

School Students, Computer Club and Math and Science Tournament team.

Three years—Varsity football team, Beta Club, tennis team and Football Defensive Player of the Week.

Ninth grade—Algebra I, Mississippi History, Junior Beta Club, Honors English and Program Challenge.

Tenth grade—Perfect attendance, Scholarship Award, Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Foundation and Foreign Language Club.

Loyola awards scholarships to Gulf Coast students

NEW ORLEANS—Seven high school students from the Gulf Coast area have been awarded scholarships to Loyola University in New Orleans.

David Zanca of Ban St. Louis, a student at St. Stanislaus, received a Rev. Patrick Quinn/Admissions Merit Scholarship of $2,000 per year for four years.

Receiving Rev. Patrick Quinn/-

Eleventh grade—Algebra II, Trigonometry, Boys' State, Junior Science and Humanities Symposium, Student Council and Prom Committee.

Twelfth grade—Wendall Ladner Bowl Most Valuable Player, Student Council president, Future Business Leaders of America, Most Valuable Defensive Lineman, Most Likely to Succeed and National High School Math Achievement Academy.

Allen teaches algebra and advanced math. She is a graduate of Millsaps College.

Dean's Merit Leadership Scholarships of $1,000 per year for four years are Douglas Gleber and Chris Merrifield of Bay St. Louis, both students at St. Stanislaus; Catherine Merritt Collins of Biloxi, Mercy Cross High; Susan Commer of Gulfport, Harrison Central High; Martin Dempsey Jr. of Long Beach, St. Stanislaus; and Pamela Favre of Long Beach, Harrison Central.

Making teaching a profession

The following article resulted from a grant from the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association.

By Michael Waldrop
Assistant Superintendent
Senatobia

How can we have better education with less money?

It's not an impossible undertaking. In fact, I believe it can be solved by turning education over to private enterprise.

Teachers could contract with states on a fee-for-service basis. It costs most states approximately $2,000 a year to educate a child. Fourth grade teachers could contract to teach 25 fourth graders for $1,500 for each nine months.

That's $37,000 a year. And that's professional!

It would be worth the expense for a teacher to lease or build classroom space, just as a doctor or lawyer would do.

Teachers could form professional partnerships.

For example, Physics teachers could join with others to form a physics teaching group to teach the children in a certain area. Their fee would be based on the area of the state, the demand for physics in that area and the background of the students they are trying to teach.

Children from educationally deprived background would be more difficult to teach and, therefore, a higher fee would be charged.

Look at the advantages. These reform movements are requiring tighter control over what teachers teach and how they teach it. Under this plan teachers would be their own bosses, and teachers' natural resistance to change and to their bosses would be diffused.

Also teachers have their own ideas as to what changes are necessary in order to improve education. Give them the chance to try out these ideas and reward them accordingly.

Obviously, we would soon solve the problem of the incompetent teacher. States could require all children to meet certain basic standards. State Department personnel could pre/post test all students. Teachers whose students failed to meet state standards would be identified.

Just as people would soon stop going to a doctor whose patients kept dying, parents would quit using teachers whose students failed to achieve.

Another benefit from this proposal would be that bright young people would be attracted to the profession. This would solve a critical problem in education today: the increasing teacher shortage.

The advantages of this system are nearly endless: Teachers could specialize in certain areas such as the teaching of learning disabled children. Some teachers could offer innovative programs such as computerized instruction. Still others might join together and contract to handle a whole academic department.

We know that more money doesn't necessarily bring better education or change, but competition might.

Teachers would be competing, and opportunities and incentives for teachers would be great. Teachers with high success rates could demand a higher fee.

It would most certainly put pressure on the teacher to perform. But, isn't this the way to make teaching a profession—by creating a market in which teachers compete?

How can we make teaching a profession other than by using the private practice which identifies a profession?

Spring fashions to be featured by JD merchandising students

A fashion show featuring the latest in Spring wear for women will be presented on Friday, April 18, by fashion merchandising students at the Jefferson Davis Campus of Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College.

Theme of the show at 7:30 p.m. in the campus auditorium will be 'A Fashion Cruise.' Fashions for all times of the day will be presented—everything from casual looks for a tropical port of call, to sophisticated ensembles suitable for the captain's table.

Marilyn VanCourt, instructor of fashion merchandising, said proceeds from the show will be used to send four students to Atlanta to complete in marketing management and merchandising during the annual convention of the Distributive Education Clubs of America.

VanCourt said admission will be

$2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children ages 6 to 12.

Commentators for the show will be Martha Sekul and Belene Acevedo of Biloxi. Coordinators are Melissa McDonald of Bay St. Louis and Mary Sprague of Pass Christian. Suzanne McClain of Long Beach is in charge of publicity. Production chairs are John Smallwood of Gulfport and Lucy Duke of Biloxi.

UNO production wins southern film award

"The Limner," the 1984 major film production of the University of New Orleans department of drama and communications, has been named "best dramatic film in the south" by The Image Film and Video Festival in Atlanta.

The film's director, J. Stephen Hank, UNO associate professor of drama and communications, will accept the $250 prize during award ceremonies in Atlanta in May.

In addition, the film was named a finalist in the dramatic short film category in the Brooklyn Arts Council Association (BACA) exposition earlier in February and received a merit award in the short dramatic film, fiction category in the Chicago International Film Festival last November.

Hank, who also co-authored the film's screenplay with Carla Shirer, says "The Limner" will be shown throughout 1986 on "Nightflight" on the USA network.

A half-hour dramatic narrative about an American photographer traveling in China in the 1850s, "The Limner" was filmed entirely in Louisiana. The Chinese countryside scenes were filmed at the Louisiana State University rice research station in Crowley and at Longue Vue Gardens in New Orleans. Interiors of a Chinese house were constructed on a sound stage in UNO's Performing Arts Center.

Original music for the film was composed by David Brown and Jerry Sieg of UNO's music department.

WHIPLASH INJURIES

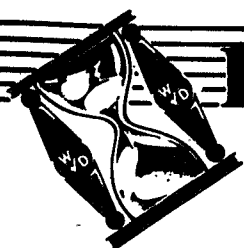

Whiplash injuries, of course, occur from auto accidents, falls and fighting. They are associated with some degree of injury to ligaments and muscles along with pinched nerves. All such injuries of the neck can be serious and bring about dangerous malfunction within the nervous system. The science of Chiropractic has developed a special technology which promotes faster healing while minimizing the serious consequences of the condition. Every injury of this nature should be examined by a doctor of Chiropractic as he has the training and experience which qualify him to aid in rapid recovery.

FFA to bring Opry stars to Poplarville

The Mississippi Future Farmers of America Foundation Inc. is sponsoring eight fund-raising Grand Ole Opry Concerts entitled "Future of America Tour '86."

The concerts will feature Grand Ole Opry Stars Cal Smith, Del Wood, Melba Montgomery, and H. C. Morgan. The final concert will be played at Pearl River Junior College in Poplarville April 29.

The objectives of the tour will be to inform the general public that there are over 200 careers in agriculture, to stress the many opportunities for students in agriculture on the secondary level and to encourage more agricultural students to enter college, and to raise the necessary funds to expand the opportunities of vocational agriculture students and to publicize the shortage of trained professional and technical agriculturalists.

Mississippi will be the second of 14 states to sponsor the tour.

Other dates and locations of the 7 p.m. concerts in Mississippi include April 24, Clinton, Forest Hill High School; April 25, Vicksburg, Vicksburg City Auditorium; April 26, Senatobia, Northwest Junior College Howard Coliseum; and April 28, Louisville, Louisville Coliseum.

All funds raised by the FFA Foundation will be placed in escrow with the interest used to expand the opportunities of students in vocational agriculture/agribusiness in an attempt to encourage more young people to consider a career in agriculture.

Incentive awards and scholarships will be provided to attract agricultural students to higher education.

Also, one half of the funds will be used by local chapters to sponsor their activities and the local members.

SPRING FEVER—Students at the University of Southern Mississippi take advantage of a warm spring afternoon to practice their frisbee-throwing techniques across the university's Lake Byron. From left, Kendall Lamb of Bay St. Louis, Gary Parker of Delsie and Lyle Landry of Bay St. Louis observe while Thomas Horgan of Ocean Springs exhibits his skills at the popular campus sport. Lamb, a freshman advertising major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Lamb of Bay St. Louis. Parker, a sophomore English major, is the son of Rut and Nash Parker of Delsie. Landry, a senior construction technology major, is the son of Edward and Gloria Landry of Bay St. Louis and Horgan, a junior marine biology major, is the son of Gail E. Martin of Ocean Springs.

Research lab offering summer field courses

Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs will offer 17 marine science classes on its 1986 summer field course schedule.

First term classes include Oceanography I (Physical, Chemical and Geological), Marine Invertebrate Zoology, Marine Chemistry, Marine Ecology, Marine Botany, Early Life of Marine Fishes and Marine Science for Teachers I.

Second term classes are Marine Vertebrate Zoology and Ichthyology, Marine Aquaculture, Oceanography II (Marine Biology), Marine Microbiology, Fauna and Faunistic Ecology of Tidal Marshes, Coastal Marine Geology, Coastal Vegetation and Marine Science for Teachers II.

Special Topics in Marine Science and Special Problems in Marine Science are individualized courses offered by arrangement which enable students to conduct independent research in a particular area of interest under the direction of a GCRL faculty member or visiting professor. Credit varies according to the time and effort required to complete the research.

Classes are open to undergraduate and graduate students, with a minimum junior-year standing required for all courses except Oceanography I and II. Some prerequisites are specified for each course. Because of the full-time nature of the curriculum, only one course may be taken during each of the two summer terms, enabling a student to earn up to 12 semester hours credit during the summer session.

Most classes involve extensive field work, in addition to lecture and laboratory periods, allowing students to observe marine plants and animals in their natural habitats and to learn various collection methods for obtaining specimens for laboratory observation.

Specific dates for each course, semester hours credit for each course, application forms and other necessary information may be obtained from Dr. David W. Cook, GCRL registrar and assistant director for academic affairs, by calling 872-4201 or writing to him at Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, East Beach, Ocean Springs, MS 39564. Application deadline is April 30.

HONOR BAND

Craig Adam of Bay St. Louis and Carl Major of Waveland recently were named to the 1986 All-South Honor Band during the 30th annual Southern Instrumental Conductors Conference held at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Adam and Major were chosen during two days of competitions featuring school bands from a three-state area.

AWARD WINNER

The United States Achievement Academy reports Carva Latino has been named a United States National Award winner in student council activities.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students attain. The Academy recognizes less than 10 percent of all American high school students. Latino, who attends Bay Junior High School, was nominated for the award by Mrs. Anne Fine, English teacher and student council counselor at BJHS. Latino will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Latino, Jr. Her grandparents are Mrs. Pauline Grace Latino of Hammond, La.; Edna Gilbert Morel and Arthur Morel, Sr. of Buras, La.; and the late Russell Latino, Sr.

JANE ESTRADA

cial, and a prominent local leader in the community.

The teacher nominated must submit a biographical sketch and a 300-word essay on a given topic. This year the topic was "Communication: the Key to Education."

A panel of judges composed of the officers of the MPSEA makes the final selection.

Coast Episcopal Schools' Jane Morris Estrada, second grade teacher at the elementary school in Bay St. Louis, has been chosen as Teacher of the Year for the MPSEA for 1985-86 school year.

Mrs. Estrada has taught for 22 years in both public and private schools. She has served as past president of the Harrison County Association of Educators, is a former board member for the Mississippi Association for Educators, elected as delegate to the NEA.

Mrs. Estrada is a member of the American Business Women's Association, and was selected Woman of the Year for the Gulfport Chapter. She is presently the Education and Scholarship chairperson.

She is a past Junior and Cadette Girl Scout Leader. She has been a member of the Harrison County Democratic Executive Committee, poll worker and manager.

The Teacher of the Year Award was presented to Mrs. Estrada at a recent MPSEA Convention held in Jackson by Association President Ernestine Cail from Strider Academy in Charleston, Miss.

DEPRESSION

One of the most common of mental illnesses and one of the most treatable.

When does a temporary depression become a clinical depression? How can you tell when someone you love — or perhaps yourself — needs help? These symptoms are easy to recognize:

- Sleeping too much — or insomnia
- Confusion, inability to make decisions
- Loss of energy, fatigue
- Guilt feelings, lack of self-worth
- Lack of interest in work or play
- Loss of weight or excessive weight gain

DON'T IGNORE A GOOD LIFE!

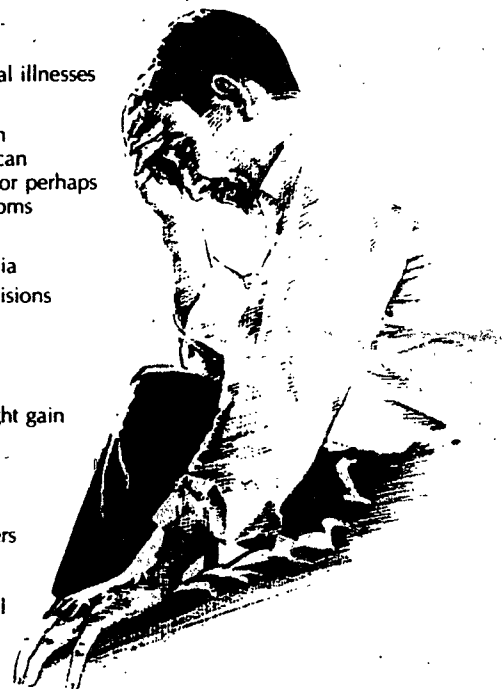

At Gulf Oaks Hospital and Clinic, an exceptional psychiatric and counseling staff is trained to help others with emotional problems associated with depression. Special programs have been developed to fit individual needs.

Help is available — and so near. Call one of our counselors today.
